

I am Hemi the super guinea. Many years ago, before I became who I am today, I remember being born on just a small island, away from the rest of the world, in Brazil. Time went by as I started noticing that I was very different from the other guinea pigs. I was born with the speed of a cheetah & hearing more intensified than a dolphin. Did I mention that I have the ability to talk? I couldn't understand why I was the one to be so different, but it made me realize I had a special purpose. I decided my purpose would be to save others. Even though this is what I wanted to do I still felt held back. I had these characteristics that made me special, but I still felt like I was just a guinea pig. Years passed after this & an event happened that would change my life forever. All I can remember is seeing humans on our island. This was very unusual because humans had never been to our island before due to it being one of the smallest islands ever known. It turns out those humans were scientists. Next thing I knew I was one of the Guinea pigs being chosen for an experimental research back in their country of United Skie. I didn't know what was going to happen to me, and I was very upset that I was being separated from my family. After what felt like forever, I arrived to the lab I was soon going to be experimented on in. Each of us guinea pigs that were chosen, were placed into our own cages until it was our time to undergo the experiment. With my hearing being so intensified I could hear that birds were also in the lab, most likely to be experimented on as well. I was terrified for all of us but after the long journey without any food or water, I was too tired to really think about anything. I look around my cage and see a bottle laying close by. Without any hesitation, I drink from it. I notice the taste is off, this does not taste like water. Minutes later scientists comes by, he notices I have drunken from the bottle, and immediately takes me out of my cage, and into his arms. All I could remember after this moment was waking up in a totally different place, a place that felt so much safer, almost like a place you would call home. This was actually the home of the scientist that took me from the lab. As I fully wake up, I looked to my left, then looked to my right and noticed that I've grown wings. Too stunned to even hold it in, I scream out loud. The scientist came running in with his eyes wide open as if he had just seen a ghost, or maybe, just maybe a Guinea pig with wings. We both scream. He asked himself aloud, "What have I done?". I answer back to him by asking, "What has happened to me?". I see his eyes widen even more, I realize I had just mistakenly revealed to the scientists that I had the ability to talk. I didn't know this mistake would turn out to be one of the best mistakes I had ever made. I explained to the scientist that was born with the ability to talk, still in shock he tell me his name is Dr. Clueless. I asked Dr. Clueless "How did I gain these wings?". He tells me he's the creator of a potion called, "Aerial potion". This potion was supposed to be being used for a experimentation on the birds I heard in the lab. Dr. Clueless continues telling me how he mistakenly put the potion in the bottle I had drank from, thinking that, that cage was one that a bird would go in and not a guinea pig. I began telling Dr. Clueless about the other abilities I was born with but how I have always wanted to be more than just a guinea pig, how I knew it was my purpose to help others in need. Dr. Clueless tells me how he could see I was destined to save others and how he wanted to help me fulfill my purpose. He started off by giving me his magical monocle, this would help me be able to detect anyone in danger from miles upon miles away. Next he gave me a special whistle that could run the bad guys away by how loud of a noise it could make. Last but not least, he gave me an unlimited supply of aerial potion so I could fly and live out my dreams forever. I thanked Dr. Clueless as he told me to go out and save the country of United Skie. Before I left he called me "Hemi" and told me this was the name of a hero he knew I would become. That's how I became Hemi The Super Guinea. It was now my time to go out on my mission and save anyone I could. I got out into the world as soon as possible, not really knowing what to expect, but ready to take on anyone and anything. As I'm flying in the sky my hearing picks up on people who are sounding afraid for their lives. I immediately used my magical monocle to easily detect where the danger is. While doing this I see a huge rocket launching up towards me. With my super speed I dodged the rocket as fast as a strike of lightning. I put my focus back on the danger that I detected. With my magical monocle, I see two campers standing face to face with a bear. I swoop down and blow my special whistle the loudest anyone could ever imagine that bear runs off as if he were the one getting chased by the two campers. I look to make sure the campers are not in any other kind of danger. I fly back up into the sky, as I look down at my belt I realize, the unlimited supply of Aerial potion I had is now gone. I panic. "I must have lost it while I was dodging the rocket. I know I have no time to search for it and I must get back to Dr. Clueless as fast as possible. Using my ability of super speed I rush across the sky and make it back to the home of Dr. Clueless, just to find that he is not even there. I panic even more knowing I don't have much time before my wings and my ability to fly will be gone. I know I must go to the only other place I have known Dr. Clueless to be. The lab. The place I had only got out of by a miracle in disguise. Even though I know the risk of going there, I am determined to make it back out of there alive. I return back to the lab and as I am searching for Dr. Clueless I see all of the animals who have been left behind. I feel terrible for them. I remember how I felt while I was in the cage. I now make it my new mission to set free each and every last one of these animals, but while in the lab I realize I still have to be careful of other scientist. If they see me they will think I am an animal that has escaped my cage and lock me back up. But I know I can't let this happen, especially with my abilities. I fly around the whole lab and finally find Dr. Clueless. He is very shocked to see me back in the lab, and asked me what I was doing there. I tell him I have lost the supply of aerial potion he gave me. He tells me he can give me another supply but he has a special mission for me. I ask him, "What is this mission?". He tells me how he wanted all the animals in the lab to be released, but he had no other way of doing it without anyone else noticing, and turning against him except for taking them out one by one. I told him how I already made it my mission to set all of these animals free before leaving this lab. Me and Dr. Clueless came up with a plan as fast as we could. Now it was time to put this plan in place.

Dr. Clueless started by pouring out all of the harmful potions that were being used on the animals so they can never be used again. Next he told all of the other scientist that the lab was going to be shut down due to a chemical waste. Most of the scientist did not hesitate to leave but it was some that were skeptical of this statement. I knew me and Dr. Clueless had to get everyone else out of the lab in order for our plan to work. I grabbed my special whistle and blew as hard as I could to run the rest of the scientist out of the lab. It worked!!! We now had the chance to free these animals. Dr. Clueless went to go push the button that would unlock all the cages to the lab. When I heard the sound buzz of the cages being unlocked I felt a sign of relief. I knew what I had to do next, I grabbed my special whistle again and blew a soft tune as all the animals followed me to the way out of the lab. Dr. Clueless came and followed to make sure no animal was left behind. As the last animal stepped foot out of the lab, me and Dr. Clueless smiled at each other knowing we had just accomplished something great. By Dr. Clueless and I coming together we were able to save hundreds of animal lives and now it was my time to go out and save a million more.
