

The Wonders of Rat Woman

There was a young woman about the age of 20. Her name was Kat. Kat's 21st birthday was this weekend and she was excited to dress up and celebrate. Kat was in her senior year of college. She loved working with kids and supporting her community in her free time. The whole neighborhood was planning a block party but everyone was anxious because her city has the number one crime rate in the world.

Kat was always careful when taking the bus at night or even in the day but one particular night it was thundering rain. She had a late night at work and had to take the 9 o'clock bus. There was one other man on that bus and she felt his eyes piercing her soul. He filled the bus with a stench of rotten cheese. Looking down to the floor you can see the print of his muddy boots. She decides to get off the bus one stop early. The man follows Kat. She was anxious looking back every minute wondering if she's still being followed. She hits an alleyway and starts running before the man could catch up to her. She thought of all the bad things the man could be capable of doing to her. Looking back while running wasn't smart as she fell into a manhole 7ft down. She twisted her ankle and was confused as she hit her head and immediately felt dizzy. Her surroundings were foggy. All she could see was a bright green light coming out of a pile of trash. Kat was scared as she was hearing an ominous voice calling to her thinking it was just her head. It got louder and louder until she went closer to the trash. Her head was thumping as she peaked her head closer and closer until, BOOM, a rat jumped on her screeching glowing green. This furry creature scratches and bites her wrist just missing her artery. Everything goes black. Kat wakes up on her birthday excited but in pain and feeling nausea. She thought it was all a dream, feeling tired, ready to do her routine. She walks into the bathroom and lifts her head to the mirror and starts screaming. She had big ears and her teeth were as crooked as rat teeth. Her nails were as sharp as knives. She had entirely transformed into a rat. Stay tuned to the wonders of Rat Woman; What will she do to help clean up the community?