

Sharkman's Great Adventures

This is a story of a great shark named Sharkman he's not like any other shark. He grew up just off the coast of California in the Pacific Ocean. Of course everyone who encountered him was scared of sharks of his size and his magnificent teeth. He may have been a predator but he had the heart of an innocent child. He's caused harm to many fish and even humans but never intentionally but we'll get into that later.

Sharkman grew up in a family of 5 with his mother, father and 2 siblings a brother and sister. Sharkman dedicated his time on making sure he and his family always ate. No matter what he would not let his family down even on the stormiest and darkest days he would make sure he found something to eat with his family. Sharkman was all for his family and doing what it took to keep them happy.

He wasn't always the perfect shark though one dark night in late August there was something that looked like a family of seals so he rushed to the top of the ocean. He made his first bite just to find that it was a human he had half eaten. He knew once he tasted the blood of the human and knew something wasn't right and let go of the person. He instantly felt regret that he ruined an innocent humans life.

That day changed everything about how the shark viewed life he made a deal with the gods of the ocean he wouldn't hurt anymore humans. Sharkman learned a lot of things that day. One thing he had learned was to be patient and don't rush to find food it will come. Also to value life more than before he was happy he had everything he needed in life. He heard it through the kelp vine that sharks get killed for hurting humans. After his cousin was put to rest after killing a group of humans.

Sharkman had a mysterious feeling his sister was in some kind of trouble. He raced through the ocean searching for his sister. He went from where the water was shallow to where it was 100 feet deep with high pressure. When he finally found his sister she was battling with an orca which made him very angry. When he got close enough to the whale he helped his sister take it down. After they finished their business with the killer whale they ripped it apart and brought home a delicious meal for the family.

After this event with his sister he stayed closer than usual to the family. It worried him if he hadn't made it time to help his sister she wouldn't still be alive. He knew he was a top predator of the ocean but still had to worry about the orca. These animals are competing for the sharks place in the ocean world. This event made Sharkman appreciate his family like nothing else in the world. Day after day he kept a close eye on his family.

Weeks and months passed and he and his family weren't doing so bad for themselves. After the incident with the orca the whales learned their place in the ocean world. They had left the sharks alone now knowing what they're capable of. There hasn't been a lack of food because of the tuna fish crossing the sharks path daily. A lot of things were about to change and the sharks had no clue what was coming their way.

Early in the morning in mid October everything was calm and cool until about 12 o'clock. Before 12 was just the calm before the storm nobody would predict what was about to happen. Sharkman and his family were still sound asleep after a long night of hunting and eating. Boats and ships were a normal thing to see above the ocean's water. What was not normal was a huge oil carrier ship sinking beneath the water. Nobody thought too much of it until the ocean seemed to change colors. What animals that were within miles radius of the sunken ship were deceased. Even the sharks sadly but this far from the end of Sharkman's adventures.

Sharkman unnaturally wakes up from being dead, and remembers the vision he had, well he was unconscious. The gods of the ocean had told him he was chosen to save the sharks from the devious Anti Shark Organization and the gods will bring back his family if he completes the mission. He knew his family had been gone by the looks of his environment. When he looks down at himself he realizes something very unusual: he all of a sudden had arms and legs. He remembered seeing the human body build and weirdly now he had some of their features. Sharkman swam as fast as he could to the shore line of Malibu Beach.

As soon as he gets on to the beach everyone starts running for their lives. As they do so Sharkman yells "I'm not here to hurt anybody". No one listened, they grabbed their things and got missing as fast as possible. Sharkman felt like an outsider on a different planet, he still remembered he had one purpose of coming to the land and that was to save his family. He had a task to find out where this organization was based.

That set Sharkman on yet another adventure to find out where he can find the leader of this organization. He knew this wouldn't be an easy task but was ready for the challenge. As he walks around this new world aimlessly trying to figure out the clues he runs into a very fearless man that's willing to help find the leader of that organization. The man's name was Rambo and he didn't play any games. He was down to help find what Sharkman was looking for.

Sharkman and Rambo end up becoming best friends. Rambo was all in on the plan to take down this organization. So at Rambos house they did all the research they needed to do. With all the information they obtained the both of them had a plan and it was a great one. They found out there was a rally for the Anti Shark Organization Friday October 16 2022 which was only three days away. That meant Sharkman and Rambo had to get to training before the big day.

On that Tuesday they trained for hours before realizing that sharkman was capable of a lot more than anyone initially thought. One major new characteristic about the shark is he was invincible he now had a lot of confidence in over ruling this challenge. Sharkman didn't understand how strong he was until he and Rambo were playing around and he hurt Rambo badly with just a light punch. Sharkman also found out he can jump a lot higher than anyone in the world. He was not disappointed with his newly founded powers.

The very night before the huge day of Sharkmans life he was stressing a lot, hoping he could bring his family back to life. He knew the next day was going to change his life either for the better or worse. When he woke up in the morning Rambo was ready to go had all his tools and gadgets ready for this adventure. There was an hour to get to the rally from when Sharkman was ready to go. He was so excited he had a chance to reunite with his family.

The rally wasn't too far from where Rambo had lived. It was only about a 20 minute commute when they arrived it was a big park with a lot of people holding signs. Then he spotted his target standing on top of the stage. There was a lot of security but it did not fear Sharkman. The plan was to have Rambo hack into the microphones and let the people know they are not there to hurt them but to stop the decision this organization is about to make. After he was done with that Sharkman got straight to work.

He ran into the crowd straight toward the well known director of the whole operation. He was a mid aged white man with a suit and an anti shark hat. Once the man saw his opposition the white man tried to make a run for it. Although he made an effort to escape it was too late. The shark got to him and ripped him to shreds. It made Sharkman feel really horrible for what he had done to the man but it was for his family and bigger than that it was for his population.

Once the job was done he was very proud of himself and headed back to his home the ocean. Before he got that he was summoned by the gods of the ocean and they thanked him for his efforts and granted him his family back. The gods told him exactly where to find them. Then took his powers away and dropped him back to his home. Sharkman and his family lived happily ever after.
